

Visitors enjoyed a longbow demonstration at Rendezvous Paddle & Sports.

Her Majesty Mary Stuart, Queen of Scotland, was portrayed by Laurie Brooks of Milwaukee, who brought along two ladies-in-waiting to greet guests for tea in the upstairs room of Vaughn Hall last Saturday. Posing with them are Ella Schanzel, 8, and Naomi Berthon, 12, both of Montello, who waited on tables for the event.

Lynn Bult and Niki Russos Harris were two members of the Scottish Festival committee who wore festive plaids to the event, held last Saturday in Montello. Both ladies were part of a group who organized and ran the many events that took place at 3 venues during the day.

The sound of bagpipes filled downtown Montello on Saturday morning for the opening ceremony of the Scottish Diaspora Tapestry Exhibit, going on now through July 30th at Vaughn Hall.

Mary, Queen of Scots arrives for tea. Those attending went home with souvenir vintage teacups and beautiful tartan plain napkins!

Judge Ben Bult and Joe Harris both donned kilts and posed for the camera in honor of Scottish Fest and the opening of the Scottish diaspora tapestry display in Montello last Saturday.
